Parley Seymour was born July 9, 1890, at Buysville, and worked all the time on his father's farm. He was educated in the Daniel schools and attended Brigham Young High School in Provo, where he studied blacksmithing. He married Sarah Elizabeth Oaks of Daniel. Lizzie was always helping the sick and elderly. She cared for her Uncle Taylor Bethers, who suffered with cancer until he died. His mother had died. Lizzie was a teacher and secretary in Sunday School, Primary president 10 years and YWMIA counselor and secretary. They bought Lawrence's farm in 1923. Parley ran range cattle and was a dairy farmer. They had five sons and four daughters.
